MRS. ALBRITTON LAID AWAY Simple Funeral Service of Methodist Paster's Wife.

The funeral of Mrs. Albritton, wife of the pastor of the First Methodist church, with all of its sad surroundings was held yesterday afternoon from the church where the bereaved husband is wont to preach. The service was sim ple and brief in accordance to the wish the deceased had expressed just prio to her death. Rev. Dr. Leilich official ed and after reading the Methodistritual he pronounced a sincere eulogy upon the departed woman that was the expression of one who held her in the highest esteem. The costly casket rested under a bank of white roses and other flowers that were there in pro fusion alling the air with their sweet aroma. The music was as sweet as it was appropriate and was rendered by a quartet consisting of Mrs. A. B. Gree-son, Miss Damon, Dr. Wesley Davis son, Miss Damon, Dr. Wesley Davis and Alfred Peters. The songs were favorities of Mrs. Albritton's being "Lend, Kindly Light," "My Jesus, as Thou Wili" and "Jesus Lover of My Soul" sung in a most feeling manner by Miss Elizabeth Davis. A large cortege of carriages followed the remains to Mt. Olivet where the interment took place under the direcon of Undertaker A. S. Watson. The practice of the officers of the law in "mugging" prisoners is not always accompanied with the pleasure and satisfaction that follows voluntary sub-mission to that process; but it has to attended to all the same. That is the way the rogues' gallery is filled. Three new pictures were added today to the motley collection gathered by the county seriff's office. They wer likenesses of George Taylor, convicts stealing Fergus Coalter's overcoat; Mike Aaron, who is doing time for smuggling oplum into the state prison. and Thomas Connors, a Bingham petit larcenist. All three are well known characters; and all three reluctantly left their cells for a stroll up town with Deputy Sheriff Cummings to take up a position before the camera. reluctance was of no avail, however, and soon the button was pressed, immediately after which the photograph er "did the rest."

"OCTAVE THANET" TALKS TO "NEWS."

One of America's Most Noted Woman Authors Visiting Salt Lake Relatives and Friends-Social Function in Her Honor Tomorrow-Some of Her Best Known Works of Fiction.

Miss Alice French, who under the pseudonym of Octave Thanet is known as one of the foremost authors of fiction in America, arrived from her trip to the coast, last evening for a short visit with her brother and cousin. Mr Morton French and Mrs. Eugene Lewis in this city, her stay extending until Friday, when she will return to her home in Clover Bend, Arkansaw, Miss French is staying at the Knutsford, where a "Newa" representative saw her this morning in a pleasant half hour's chat, in which the noted authoress gave a brief verbal glimpse of her literary career, with expressions upon some of the subjects and problems with which her work has dealt. "The Heart of Toil" Miss French said in answer to a question is perhaps my most important work. "Since its publication I have received innumerable letters from people of all classes-laboring men, manufacturers and bank presidents, expressing satisfaction with presentation of the problems with which the story deals. In no way, however, does the work attempt to theorize or lay out plans for the solu-tion of any questions. It is simply a story of conditions, presented in the simplest way possible and with no aim at preaching.
"My favorite story? It is perhaps one published in Harper's magazine some time since-"The Captured Dream, which, in a strictly literary sense, I perhaps my best. My first published story was "The Bishop's Vagabond," which appeared in the Atlantic Month-ly just after my school days at Andover, and my longest is "Explation, published first serially in Scrib ner's magazine and since in book

MISS ALICE FRENCH, Whose Pen Name is "Octave Thanet."

THE OLD HOMESTEAD, DAVENPORT, IOWA, Where Miss French Has Done Most of Her Literary Work.

The scene of this story was a plantation belonging to friend of mine in Arkansas, whom I visited and in whose home I drew materials for my story. "As to my method of work, I fear that I should find it hard to tell you. The only thing for any artist is to keep his mind receptive to anything that might affect his line of work, then use it clearly, simply and truthfully, without attempt at embellishment. When an author explains his purpose, he fails to be an artist and "Material exists everywhere; one has be clear to all readers. I gather it from people, places, incidents, wherever go, one suggestion leading to another My first work was done in Davenport Iowa, where I lived before going to Arkansas. My birthplace was Andorn, Mass., where I was also educated. Some years since I went to Clover Bend, Arkansaw, and in company with my friend who is traveling with me now, purchased the plantation where I now reside. I have more time to write there, as it is more quiet. In Davenport I have a large cir-cle of relatives and as we are a family very much attached to each other, when I go there, as I frequently do, I like better to visit with them than anything else. Yes, I travel considerably; in the summer I go to Davenport sometimes Minnesota, and the Atlantic coast, and my winters are spent in the South. This trip to the coast is chiefly a business one, and now that we have accomplished our purpose we shall go home. I shall be busy with a story which will probably be my longest, it not my most important work—quite a novel in fact. I am gathering materials for it now and it will probably be pub-

What the form will be we cannot of course tell. vill probably be something different and materially better than the conditions which confront us now.'

Miss French expressed herself as being much pleased with Salt Lake and the people she has met here the latter she declared being "especially delightful." She believes that in spite of the occasional "cold snaps" like the present, Salt Lake must have a delightfully even climate, and is much impressed with the scenery around the city. Miss French will stay until Friday night when she will leave for her home in Arkansas. Tomorrow morning she will given by her cousin, Mrs. Eugene Lewis, the reception which was to have been given for her during her stay having to be postponed on account of her ill health, as she contracted a severe cold in San Francisco from which she is still suffering. The following items quoted from a sketch in "Ameri-The following Women" give a brief resume of Miss French's career.

LIFE AND WORKS. Miss French was born in Andover Mass., March 19,1850, She is widely known by her pen-name, "Octave Thanet." She has lived in the West and South On both sides Miss French descendant of the Puritans. She Mayflower people and Revolutionary heroes, witch-hangers and modern rulers of Massachusetts among her ances-tors, as well as godly ministers not a few, so that, as she has two centuries of unadulterated New England behind connection with her story "Heart of few, so that, as she has two centuries foll," as to her convictions as to the of unadulterated New England behind outcome of the present agitation of her, as she was educated there and goes there every summer. While she lives in the West and spends her winters in the South, she is so much of a composite that she says she hesitates to place herself. Two of her brothers were edu-cated abroad, and one of them marand not revolution. Conditions are better now than they have been, and there ried one of the Irish Hamiltons. Her father was a manufacturer of agricultural implements. He was a loyal westerner, but he never lost his fondness for the East, going there regularly every summer. He was much more than business man, being an erthu lover of books and a connoisseur in the ne arts. Miss French began to write shortly after she was graduated from Abbot academy, Andover, Mass., and after the publication of "The Bishop's Vaga-bond" in the Atlantic Monthly sent "A Communist's Wife" to the Harpers who declined it, and then sent it to the Lippincotts, who accepted it, Since that time she has always found a place for her works. The criticisms that editors offer she has found very valuable. Among her published works are "Knit-ters in the Sun," 1887; "Otto, the Knight," "Expiation," 1896, and "We All." She has also edited "The Best Letters of Lady Mary Montagu, ies of a Western Town." 1893: "An Adventure in Photography," 1893; "Missionary Sheriff," 1897; "A Book of True Lovers," 1898; "The Heart of Toll, 898; "A Slave to Duty," 1900.

She is very fond of the Gallic models of style. She is interested in historical studies and the German philosophers. She likes all out-of-door sport and declares that she is a great deal better

It is a delight to her to arrange a din-ner. She has a fad for collecting china in politics she is a Democrat, a moderate free-trader and a firm believer in "honest money." Miss French has a deep interest in English history and a great affection for England. She pur-sued her studies assiduously, going to original sources for her pictures of by-gone times, and finding the most inspiration in the period which saw the the reign of Henry VIII and his chil dren. Her pen-name was the result of chance, "Octave" was the name of her room mate at school, and had the advantage of being suited to either sex. The word "Thanet" she saw written or printed on a passing freight car, and adopted it. She prefers the Scotch to the French pronunciation of the word, although she regrets ever having used a pen-name.

Regarding the published statement that Councilman Thomas had called on the chief of police, the former enters an emphatic denial saying he never called on him to be all the chief the chi on him in his life
